AN HONEST CONVERSATION ON RACE, RECONCILIATION, AND RESPONSIBILITY

ROB CORCORAN

With a foreword by Governor Tim Kaine

"A soberly inspiring book about citizens who have struggled to find respectful and productive ways of relating through dialogue across the racial, social, and economic differences that dangerously divide us."

—Harold H. Saunders, International Institute for Sustained Dialogue, former Assistant Secretary of State

Rob Corcoran presents his moving historical narrative and handbook for facilitating dialogue and community change in a world sharply divided by racial and religious tensions. A touching story of a dramatic change of heart in the American south- with important lessons for all countries in the post 9/11 world.
